

Understanding Equal Pay – Education Sessions
Equal Pay is here for Community & Disability Sector Workers
Do you need to know more?

Have you been translated to the Modern Award (SCHCADS) Classification Structure yet?

The new national Modern Award came into existence in July 1 2012.

Do you know what your new classification is?

It's a different structure from our old Award/s and is based on your current position description.

Have you received your first Equal Pay instalment?

It depends where you are classified in the Modern Award structure – you need to know your classification to establish what change there is to your rate of pay. The first Equal Pay instalment was scheduled to be paid on the 1 of December 2012.

Can't answer some of these questions?

Come to a FREE workshop to find out how it all works. There's bound to be one near you!

The ASU is running sessions for all workers in every region across the industry – via an Australian Government funded program.

The sessions explain the basis for these changes, the process for classification translation and how the Equal Pay instalments are worked out.

Forward to your co-workers, and networks so we can all be on the same page understanding these important changes.

Maybe you're up to date, but worried that others don't know their entitlements, encourage them to come along.

The ASU can run workplace sessions if there is enough interest – get a group together and get in touch to make a time.
